

Bluegrass iNet Service

Bluegrass Technology is pleased to announce the availability of Bluegrass iNet Service, a new internet application designed to provide your customers with on-line work requests and access to their active work orders and work history records. This provides you with a true competitive advantage when dealing with commercial, industrial and property management companies by helping you solve their more demanding service and related information requirements. This internet-based module integrates directly with our Dispatching and provides multiple levels of security.

Some of the benefits this tool will provide to you and your customers are:

- The inclusion of an exciting and proven technology into your company's information management system and marketing efforts.
- Your customers will have direct access to their work orders and history in limited detail providing them with a greater sense of control, without compromising the integrity of your service department.
- You'll have an alternative to booking work during periods of heavy demand for your services. Your customers have the satisfaction of knowing the work order has been entered, and your service people can review web-generated work requests to decide priorities and callback order.
